Re: #11-079: Anne Chamberlain advs. Janice K. Rundles

Dear Attorney Trevethick,

As I explained in my cover letter yesterday I am not an attorney nor do I have any legal background. I thought exculpatory meant newly discovered evidence but I have just been told that if it was provided before the trial that it does not qualify.

The jail calls are in fact newly discovered evidence because I just learned of them and they were never brought up at trial. I probably used the wrong terminology but the importance is not to be diminished because of my misunderstanding.

Michael Benton's jail call is an admission that should have acquitted Jesse Brooks of this entire nightmare. Not to mention Joseph Vrooman's admission that there was never a conspiracy to begin with.

Please accept my apology as I am doing my best to present to you how very wrong this whole situation has been for Jesse Brooks and his loved ones.

Respectfully yours,
